Johnny treasured in his heart a deliclous something for the girl opposite all to the object of his adoration. So fearful was he that she would suspect It that, when he saw her coming on the street, he would either look down at her.

The approach of St. Valentine's day was a great relief to Johnny. He could send his little love a valentine expressing his feelings for her without her knewing that he did so. The only obstacle in the way was that he did not know her name and did not dare ask any one who might know for fear of betraying his secret. He was on intimate terms with the grocer's delivery boy, whom he had noticed delivered supplies to both his and her home, and asked him for the name of the family in which his sweetheart belonged. Through Jim he learned the girl's name was Julia Reynolds.

ceeded, carried it to his room and, locking the door, proceeded to address it to Miss Julia Reynolds of 357 Harrison street, spelling Harrison H-a-r-j-

A terrible thing happened while Johnny was taking the valentine to the letter box. Just as he was about to drop the missive in the box who should come along but the very girl to whom it was addressed! John blushed scarlet and instead of putting the valentine in the box put it in his pocket and walked away, looking up at the sky. It was not till the evening, when darkness covered his romance, that Johnny mailed his valentine in a box a mile from his home.

Whether among the dozen valentines John received there was one from the girl he loved best he did not know. Soon after St. Valentine's day, meeting Julia coming from school, he mustered courage to glance at her and thought he saw a suspicion of a smile on her pretty lips. But he dared not keep his eyes on her long enough to make sure. This was the last time he saw

POISON IN THE SOUP

Chicago Chef Is Sought for Illness of Hundred Diners

AT UNIVERSITY CLUB BANQUET

Given in Honor of Archbishop Mundelein Last Thursday Evening

Chicago, Feb. 14.-Virulent poison was found Saturday by Chicago city chemists n samples of the soup served at the banquet in honor of Archbishop Mundelein at the University club here Thursday night. The discovery, coupled with the disappearance of a kitchen employe of the club and the finding of similar poison in a private laboratory in his room, together with literature classed as anarchistic, led the police to believe that the illness which overcame more than her as a child, for soon after the meet- 100 of the diners was the result of a deing he saw a doctor's vehicle before liberate attempt to poison the guests. the Reynolds door and later heard that

John T. Trowbridge Dead at Age of 88 at Arlington

CREATED "JACK HAZARD" BOOKS

Author of "Neighbor Jackwood," and Also of "Darius Green"

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 14.-John Townsend Trowbridge, 88, poet and au thor of stories for boys, died at Arlington Saturday night. Death was caused by bronchitis, which developed from a severe cold contracted a few weeks ago. At the bedside of Mr. Trowbridge were his wife and three children, Mrs. Grace T. Yenmes, wife of Prof. Herbert Yeames of Hobart college, Geneva, N. Y.; Mrs. C. H. Von Bauer of Long Island City, N. Y., and Arthur T. Trowbridge of Arlington.

Last summer Mr. and Mrs. Trowbridge spent some weeks at their summer home, "Spouting Rock," near Kennebunkport, Me., but this winter they did not go South as had long been their practice, but remained at their home in Arlington, the author spending much time in his library, which overlooks Spy pond, the beauty of which influenced him to choose a home near by.

Until his present attack Mr. Trowbridge appeared physically well and men-tally alert. The war, however, distressed him greatly and recently he said to a caller: "I have the utmost abhorrence of war and the one thing I now wish to live for is to see militarism crushed, international peace established and the socalled Christian nations no longer madly destroying each other, preparing to live together as unarmed friendly neighbors should.

John Townsend Troworldge was one of the last survivors of the group of authors who made Boston a famous literary center in the first three decades of the last half of the 19th century. Although his chief success came from the writing of books for boys, he also published several novels and volumes poetry. Mr. Trowbridge's parents, New England people, were among the pioneer settlers of western New York, and it was in a log cabin in the little hamlet of Ogden. For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Been Woman's Most Reliable Medicine -Here is More Proof.

To women who are suffering from some form of woman's special ills, and have a constant fear of breaking down, the three following letters ought to bring hope: -

North Crandon, Wis.—"When I was 16 years old I got married and at 18 years I gave birth to twins and it left me with very poor health. I could not walk across the floor without having to sit down to rest and it was hard for me to keep about and do my work. I went to a doctor and he told me I had a displacement and ulcers, and would have to have an operation. This frightened me so much that I did not know what to do. Having heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would give it a trial end it would I thought I would give it a trial and it made me as Well as ever. I cannot say enough in favor of the Pinkham remedies."—Mrs. MAYME ASBACH, North Crandon, Wis.

Testimony from Oklahoma.

Lawton, Okla. - "When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I seemed to be good for nothing. I tired easily and had headaches much of the time and was irregular. I took it again before my little child was born and it did me a wonderful amount of good at that time. I never fail to recommend Lydia E.
